Governor.

The candidates for Governor of the whig and democratic parties, so far as we know, are gentlemen whose personal characters are without blemish. But it should be remembered that Mr. Fairfield is practically an enemy to lawfull liberty. He has recorded his name on the political history of his country, an enemy to the right of petition, aided with his own hands to destroy it, and in the bearing of world responses—AYE to Gag. He has ever treated the anti-slavery struggle and its friends, with abuse and contempt. Is he to be the Governor of the free and noble State of Maine?

We know not much about, and can find no one who does. We really have some sympathy for him, for he was born to be overcome because nothing would be lost by shooting him down.

He has our recommendation, however, as we have been repeatedly assured. When he was in the state senate, a motion was made to lay certain anti-slavery petitions on the table for one hundred years, and Mr. Robinson seconded the motion.

Ought he not to be Governor of a liberty-loving, generous people?

Besides, things are so arranged that the whole moral influence of voting for him will be in favor of Henry Clay.

Horrible!

The People's Press at Norgatewood, (a paper that publishes the wildest slanders of man's character and then refuses to publish any evidence of exploitation from the outraged,) comes out with an article headed, "How terrible!" And what do you think it is? Be sure, and we will tell you. Some liberty whigs told him, a few days before, that, "If he is elected, at the next election, we, in defeat, the other party?" Friends, did you ever—O wicked wicked Party! Is it?? Do for many years pass "pass it round?" But stop we have found now, brighter than ever glistened.

A GEM,

Under ocean green waters."

Solidarity, beauty, pathos—all that is grand and tender, is here in one short paragraph.—Nothing in Burke, or Brougham, or Patrick Henry, or Webster will equal it. Liberty men in Somerset! If such immortal honor, such imperishable glories will not move you to "dispense" among the whigs, you are a hardened set sure enough. Read now.

Let them drop their independent tickle and deserve to their respective parties, and come to their country's rescue. If they wish to promote the interests of the abolition movement, let them do it in the world; if they with their names are drawn to promote it as the lovers of their country's best good, let them leave their present mode of warfare, and apply to their fellow乡men, with the moral suasion of their plain, simple minds, and establish their Southern under a Washingtonian Banner of love and good will.

This and their cause is on its triumph wing. They have come to stay. If they go on as they have commenced, instead of their present plan and ultra measures, their movement will be over—great and good men will forsake them, and they will go down to posterity as a party "that was, but is not."

SOMERSET!"

Friends of Liberty, are you ready to do your country and the world what Maine will do for Justice in 1842?

IEP! Remember that the abolition of slavery must be made the paramount question, or practically no question at all. Then our supporters well know, and hence their efforts to depose us here.

We shall be silent when this paper goes to press, in attendance on the Somerset and Buxton Conventions. Please excuse any want of attention for two weeks.

The Times.—This will be found entire in our last page. It is not as respects the Boundary, what justice would give us, and what we should have had; it slavery had not so deeply injured the moral and physical power of the nation. But we believe the Commissioners did the best they could for the sake and the country, and we rejoice that the question is settled.

The navigation of the St. John is an important object. Now is the time for young men, and women too, to lay the foundation of competence and happiness in that fertile and healthy region.

YORK COUNTY has now wheeled into line. She has taken her position in the glorious array raising for Constitutional Liberty. Every county in the state is now organized for the conflict,—for fifty years' siege—if need be.—Look of our list of candidates, enlarging a greater amount of moral and intellectual worth than was ever before presented to the people of Maine. Truly honest men will make honest rulers, while "wickedness procreates from the wicked."

An EUSTO CONSERVATIVE.—A young gentleman was asked the other day if his father was not giving him a liberal education. "No," he replied the young cockatoo, "my father is not giving me a liberal education; he is giving me a conservative education, Sir."—[London Patriot.]

Liberator.—Twenty-two deaths and fifty houses and barns, have been destroyed by lightning in the United States, since June

CONGRESS.

Mr. Lovett having returned from Washington, Mr. Torrey continues a correspondence. The following is from his last letter in the Standard.

Washington, Aug. 15, 1842.

DEAR LEAVENWORTH.—I have no doubt it is important to write to you a detail of the business of the week. You will have noticed in the daily papers that there much has been done, some good and some evil.

The body of men to satisfy this week have been the "Dandies Radish Creek" bill, the "Alabama militia bill," to pay for services in the Creek war, and "Senate's bill to prohibit the importation of slaves."

This year, the bill to prohibit the importation of slaves, has not exceeded $2,000,000 per year, notwithstanding that sum, which shows the moderation of our kind and benevolent masters! They don't wish to tax all the earnings of free labor, but the bill failed, the vote was 117 to 100.

Senators said to-day, in the Senate, that this year, the bill will not be burdened with more than $2,000,000 a year compared with the average of the last ten years.

Among other little bills, the corporation of the Alabamians bill, to prohibit the importation of slaves, was introduced for $100,000 to build a bridge across the Ohio River in Pennsylvania avenue; quite moderate isn't it?

The Senate included it in the "complaint of the bill," which is the Southern boundary of the bill, so that it is a case of old India with all the staves of the slaves, that have left us.

Senators said to-day, in the Senate, that this year, the bill will not be burdened with more than $2,000,000 a year compared with the average of the last ten years.

Another bill to prohibit the importation of slaves, was introduced for $100,000 to build a bridge across the Ohio River in Pennsylvania avenue.

every where. It is worse than the "Virginia Durham beetle" here.

The two army bills have become law since the 4th, the House concurring in the report of the Select Committee to retain the bill, and change it into a regular bill.

On other hand, the Senate, in their differences, so that on the whole, the bill is not passed.

This year, the nation will not be burdened with more than $700,000 useless papers under the name of the "tariff of 1842."
